2016-2017
APPLICATION GUIDELINES
FOR COMMUNITY EDUCATION COUNCILS

A. Problem to be addressed by Community Education Councils (CEC)

Education, especially at the postsecondary level, is essential for the Commonwealth’s economic development. Existing and future community-based businesses, industries and organizations require a well-educated, highly skilled, technologically literate workforce to remain viable, competitive entities into the 21st Century. For Pennsylvania communities to attract new industries and employers, a strong workforce is an important prerequisite.

Residents of many Pennsylvania communities do not have ready access to education programs to meet their professional, vocational, occupational and developmental needs. Community Education Councils, nonprofit educational organizations governed by a community-based board of directors, are designed to fill this void by providing access to postsecondary education and training resources for citizens. Yet, many communities still do not have access to vital educational programs and services.

Through Community Education Councils, Pennsylvania makes needed educational programs more accessible to communities. Article XIX-D of the Public School Code, 24 P.S. §§ 19-1901-D through 1905-D, govern the establishment, operation and funding of Community Education Councils. With the infusion of Commonwealth funds, Community Education Councils have been successful in coordinating educational offerings and student services from a wide variety of providers. Functions provided by councils in the past include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Providing instructional facilities and computer labs.
- Convening educational providers (including colleges and universities, businesses, industries and private licensed schools) to identify existing programs or to design new programs to meet needs.
- Registering students.
- Facilitating the delivery of educational and student services.
- Counseling students and employees.
- Marketing program offerings.

B. Eligible Applicants

Existing Community Education Councils and newly formed Community Education Councils are eligible to apply. Any new Community Education Council must be a Pennsylvania-based nonprofit corporation. In order for a community education council to be awarded a grant, the following must be established by the organization: be registered as a non-profit organization with the Pennsylvania Department of State, have a Board of Directors, have a Federal Employer Identification Number and use a separate and distinct financial accounting system.
C. Application Requirements

Applications will be submitted via eGrants. Instructions will be emailed to current CEC directors.

Applications will include the following subsections:

1. Statement of Need

   Identified regional needs are the foundation for any of the educational and student services to be coordinated and provided by a Community Education Council. The needs should be clearly demonstrated and, where possible, substantiated by statistical data. The following should be included to demonstrate and substantiate need:

   a. Describe the region’s current (updated annually) educational condition, e.g., availability of program offerings and educational services.

   b. Describe the region’s educational attainment compared to Pennsylvania’s average. Include the following categories:
      - Percentage of high school graduates pursuing postsecondary education.
      - High school dropout rate.
      - Percentage of residents ages 25 and older with the following educational attainment: Less than high school (no diploma), high school diploma (includes equivalency), some college (no degree), Associates degree, and Bachelor’s degree or higher. Include the percent of change in adults with Bachelor’s or higher degree for the period from 2000 to 2010 or later if available.

   c. Describe the region’s demographics to include unemployment rate, Median Household Income, Poverty Rate, recent plant closings or retooling, etc.

   d. Describe the educational needs of the region’s prospective and current workforce using data reported by various stakeholders to substantiate needs.

2. Council’s Plan for Addressing the Community’s Need

   This section of the proposal should describe the applicant’s plans for meeting the community’s education needs by coordinating the delivery of programs/courses. Community Education Councils should not duplicate programs or services already available from existing entities, such as GED Centers, Workforce Development Centers, School-to-Work Initiatives or Adult Literacy Centers. The description should cover:

   a. The organization of the Council—Provide the description of its governing body, staff positions, organizational relationship to each other and their respective responsibilities; if part of another organization, define the relationship between the CEC and the parent organization.

   b. Explain how the Council will identify and collaborate with providers of postsecondary education without having exclusive legal affiliation with any one provider, unless otherwise specified by law.

   c. If applicant is a new Council, provide the names of potential postsecondary education providers including, but not limited to, area vocational-technical schools; colleges and universities authorized to operating in Pennsylvania and accredited by an agency recognized by the federal government; private licensed schools; or other entities authorized to provide professional, vocational or occupational certification or licensure. If an existing Council, provide the names of actual providers.

d. Describe the educational services the providers will offer that support the needs identified, without duplicating services that are already available. Include specific credit/non-credit courses, vocational courses, etc. Also describe the student services that will be offered to students.

e. Describe the educational and student services the Council will offer that support the needs identified without duplicating services that are already available. Clearly identify what activities will be supported by state funds and what will be supported by other funds.

f. Explain how the Council will (1) measure the impact of the educational offerings and student services provided in the region; (2) compare the proposed plan with what actually transpired; (3) differentiate between courses and services eligible for state funding and non-eligible courses such as avocational, recreational, personal growth, etc. and (4) evaluate the courses/programs offered and implement changes based on the evaluation results.

g. Describe the potential impact the CEC will have in people’s lives as a result of the programs that you plan to conduct.

h. Define the physical facilities that will be utilized for the delivery of these services.

3. Proposed Budget
