Describe the LEA's system used to evaluate the performance of your teachers:

The Charlotte Danielson Framework for teaching and its corresponding rubrics are used for our teacher evaluation system. The framework of teaching is a researched-based set of components of instruction that are grounded in a constructivist view of learning and teaching. The framework is based on Praxis III criteria, augmented to apply to experienced teachers as well as to novice teachers. Documents from the standards committees of the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards (NBPTS) also influenced the framework. A teacher demonstrating all proficient and/or distinguished levels of performance on all elements of the rubric will receive a satisfactory rating. A teacher receiving an unsatisfactory or basic level of performance on any element of the rubric must demonstrate growth in that area throughout the school year to obtain a satisfactory rating. Growth will be determined through the use of the same rubric. The assistant to the executive director and the supervisor conduct the observations of the teachers with the final rating determined by the assistant to the executive director. All evaluators receive an initial training of the Danielson Model with updates annually. Formal observations occur a minimum of twice per year for non-tenured employees and once per year for tenured employees. Additionally, teachers with an unsatisfactory or basic level of performance will be observed informally and formally during the remainder of the school year to document growth. Feedback protocols include ongoing communications including pre-observation and post observation conferences.
